

Lovely things about living on Dartmoor

One of the lovely things about living in this part of the world is the small country fairs and fetes during the summer months.

So, I found myself driving through the winding country lanes last weekend to one such occasion, the Throwleigh Fete and Horticultural Show. With a population of around 350, most of whom were at the fete, we were treated to old fashioned races and games from our childhood, such as the three-legged race, egg and spoon, and ladder games where you have to throw a bean bag between the rungs in order.

On a beautiful summers day there was lots of laughter, thrills and spills, things to see, books to buy and old cars to admire, as well as a raffle and a good gossip with friends.
